PETAL #1

My mission is to be part of a company who respects not only their customers needs but their employees and their own needs as well. We all know the technology world continues to move at a rapid pace, therefore, by keeping up with the latest advancements in technology ensures that the customers needs are met at high standards. Our customers are the driving force of the company and being part of a company who can achieve this on a daily basis is what my purpose in the technology field is about. I am looking forward to the opportunity to grow within a company as I thrive on stability.

I am a very creative person. This is the number one reason why I was attracted to becoming a web developer. I am excited about the opportunity to express my creativity along with others. This does not only apply to the front end of web developing but the backend as well. To write magnificent code your peers can read with ease and simplicity is something I am looking forward to in the field.

Having a vast experience in the Logistics Field has led me to understand the importance of time management. I possess a majority of the top essential time management skills. Prioritization is extremely important when it comes to any project. I am self-aware, self-motivated, focused, patient with excellent communication skills, just to name a few. I understand the value of not only executing deadlines but making sure the process is as streamlined as possible.

I love collaborating with revved up, forward-focused like minded individuals who know where they're going next. Together we can create and strategically execute projects that inspire and promote what the company has to offer.

As an avid marathoner I thrive on being active. However, I understand that being a web developer requires the majority of my time being spent on a computer. Having said this I would prefer a working environment that allows for some flexibility such as working from home or an environment where collaborating with others is fun and enjoyable.

I am seeking a salary range of $55,000 and up. This is based upon the description and my research including benefits and supplements. My requirements are flexible and negotiable, depending on factors such as additional benefits, frequency of salary reviews and increased advancement opportunities.

At this point in my career, I am searching for a position that would be a perfect fit, therefore, I am open to relocating to Seattle, WA or Portland, Oregon for the right opportunity. However, a position in the Dallas downtown area would be favorable.
